KONSTANTIN EMPHYSEMIZES

PRIORITIES

As Lenin once said...
The invasion of Grenada was an act of blatant imperialism....

What is he talking about?

He turned over two pages again!

NAMES IN THE NEWS

BOHDAN KRAWCHENKO, currently on vacation in Europe has recently made several appearances at Celtic clubs. Rumour has it that he is changing his name to Jimmy McKrawchenko to accommodate his Glaswegian friends.

MARY PASIEKA is pregnant. BT's spies report that one overheard reaction in Edmonton was "My God! She has no right to get pregnant again!" The validity of that remark cannot be confirmed at the source.

KHRYSTIA KOHUT may also be pregnant. No one is certain. However, it is understood that it is becoming a prerequisite of a CIUS secretary.

JOHN-PAUL HIMKA remains calm in the face of an earlier pregnancy and his only comment thus far is "We're workin' on a ten pounder."

MYROSLAV YURKEVICH has tired of Edmonton winters and has left for California.

VOLODYMYR VYNNYCHENKO wishes to announce the appearance of his second Shchodennyk containing perceptive analyses of Ukrainian weather patterns.

BOHDAN KORDAN and LUBOMYR LUCIUK are happy to announce their engagement. The wedding will follow in the summer.

PETER SAVARYN has not been appointed to any committees this month.

YURY BOSHYK has been awarded a special prize for most computer terminal messages in one day. Three of his messages have been published recently as CIUS research reports.

LAURENCE DECORE recently cut off the water supplies to the homes of Alberta government ministers. Asked to comment, he replied that "We are always willing to negotiate. They can do without water anyway. Vote MacGuigan, or Turner."

PETER POTICHNYJ will be holding a workshop on Ukrainian-Jewish relations at McMaster University on 5 May. It will last from 10.20am-10.35am. Dr. Potichnyj will be formally introduced by the CIUS director, 9am-10.20am.

JARS BALAN announces his new collection of poetry: "Me, Myrna and the Medit."

HALYNA FREELAND and OLENKA MELNYK are co-operating on a book, funded by CIUS, that is to appear in the fall of 1984. Entitled (tentatively) Eviction Made Easy: A Guide for Landlords, the volume will be a pioneer in this important field.

THE ANSWER

I've got no illusions about the enormous obstacles involved and the length of the struggle which may take generations to achieve, but however disillusioned I sometimes get, I never doubt for a moment that a Polish-Ukrainian rapprochement is the key to the ultimate survival of both peoples as well as to the ultimate stability of Europe so I sincerely hope that you will keep my name on your files and let me know if you come across anything of interest.

Letter received from Brisbane.

BOLSHEVIK MEMBER

The Devil has welcomed Brezhnev to Hell, and has invited him to choose his own punishment. To this end, the Devil provides a guided tour of available tortures; Hitler is being flogged by vengeful Jews. Karl Marx is forced to live under socialism, etc. Finally, in a tiny grotto removed from the main chamber of horrors, Brezhnev spots Vladimir Lenin making passionate love to Marilyn Monroe.

"There, that's what I want!" Brezhnev gestures excitedly towards the pair, "Lenin's punishment."

"You idiot!" the Devil snaps back, "That's Hell for Marilyn Monroe!"

"Andropov is such a good man," the director regaled, "that each time he has to order an arrest...he can't hold back his tears."

NHL CORNER

The following are comments made by former Edmonton Oiler Garry Unger in his new role as commentator for ITV's hockey telecasts.

"The puck can get blinded by the goalie."

"He was going where he thought the puck was going to be and that's where it was."

"They've opened it wide open."

"Winning and losing is a habit in the NHL."

"He made sure the rebound didn't come out."

"Kurri and Gretzky complement themselves so well."

"It would have been over the glass if the glass wasn't that high."

"He could have made a play on the play."

"Sparks fly when Hunter and Smyl are on the same line against each other."

EXTRAMURAL ACTIVITIES

CIUS are re-evaluating the extramural lecture tours following the recent experience of Bee Cordon. Remarked the Hromada heavy, "There I was at the hotel and I found the front door kicked in. I went to the front desk and there were hookers everywhere. I got into an elevator and was immediately surrounded by hookers. I was completely at their mercy!"

AND HE DRINKS TOO!

When Kordan has had a few drinks he becomes almost comprehensible.
